As an admitted student, you’re one step closer to going beyond. To finding that place where you’ll learn more than you thought possible, where you’ll be challenged and you’ll rise to meet that challenge, where you’ll meet new people and have amazing, eye-opening experiences.

You can do all of that here. You can go beyond in all aspects of your college life.

Academics

You’ll be able to choose from 40 majors and more than 50 minors, concentrations and pre-professional programs. And, in each of those programs, you’ll be able to go beyond textbooks and classroom lectures to get hands-on experiences, which will prepare you even more for life after college.

- Write news stories for the student newspaper, The Source.
- Assist our athletic trainers at local sporting events.
- Build your own sensors, then program them to measure carbon dioxide in soil.
- Broadcast from WDRQ, the campus radio station.
- Work on the staff or write for our literary magazine, Baily’s Beads.
- Create a marketing plan for a local business.
- Help perform environment assessments with area foresters.
- Make your own music video in the TV production lab.
But there’s more.

Study abroad

When we say you can go beyond, we mean it literally. Many of our students study in another country, from Ecuador to Japan, from Jordan to Germany. Then, when they return home they realize they’re more confident. They know more about themselves and the world. They’re open to even more possibilities.

“The personal family-like community that Pitt-Bradford offers is second to none.”

Conduct research

On our campus, you’ll have an opportunity to conduct research, sometimes alongside one your professors, which usually isn’t possible at larger universities. You’ll also have the chance to present your findings during our Honors Day event on campus, in publications, or at regional and national undergraduate research conferences. You can conduct research in many majors, not just the sciences. Our students have researched topics in mathematics, sociology, criminal justice and psychology.

Meet Alassia Cousins, a biology major from Olean, NY. Alassia is researching which organisms isolated from turmeric and ginger have the highest L-asparagine activity. It’s important research because L-asparagine, a non-essential amino acid, can be used to treat certain kinds of leukemia.

“I like the hands-on labs, the small classes, and getting to know my professors.”

We Want You To Succeed

College work is challenging, but don’t worry. We’re here to help you. You’ll have access to many resources so you can succeed:

• Academic Advising Center
• Academic Coaching and Tutoring Center for help with study skills, coaching and workshop, and tutoring and review sessions
• Disability Resources and Services
• Mathematics Center
• TRIO Student Support Services
• Writing Center

Meet Stephen Clad, a sport and recreation management major from Washington, DC. Stephen traveled more than 3,500 miles from his home to be an intern with the West Ham United Football Club in London, England. He examined the team's social media presence and analyzed fan demographics to help the team prepare for its move to London's Olympic stadium.

See where other students have interned at www.upb.pitt.edu/internships.

“I didn’t even feel like I was working. It was so much fun. It reassured me that I have chosen the right major at Pitt-Bradford and career path.”

Internships

You can also get great experience as an intern at one of the many local, regional, national or even international locations. Serving as an intern will give you valuable experience and help you make great connections to give you an advantage when you graduate.

Campus Life

Residence life

After class, relax. Get comfortable. Hang out with your friends. Kick up your feet in your own spacious, comfy apartment because you won’t be living in a cramped dorm room here. All of our apartments are fully furnished and wired for cable TV (you’ll have 95 channels to surf through) and high-speed Internet.

And when your stomach is growling, you’ll be able to find something to satisfy your hunger amid all of the choices in our dining room – from pizza and burgers to made-to-order omelets and salads. If there’s something you don’t see, just ask. Our dining staff wants to make sure you’re happy and well fed. They also want you to have a little fun, so they plan theme nights and special events. During an international dinner, they served several dishes, including paella, spicy peanut soup, jerk chicken and pork pot stickers. At an ’80s dinner, they made Pac-man cupcakes.

We’re a safe community

Because we’re a close-knit community, we look after each other and we take care of each other, almost like a family. Our campus police officers – who are fully trained police officers – patrol our well-lit campus 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, to keep us safe. We also have extensive security measures in place to provide security for all campus buildings, including our residence halls.

Learn more campus safety at www.upb.pitt.edu/campuspolice.

Activities

You’ll work hard as a college student, but you’ll also have time for fun. In fact, you could have something fun to do each day (after you finish studying, of course.) Join one or more of our student clubs and organizations. We have more than 60, including:

• Art Club
• African-American Student Union
• Biology/Chemistry Club
• Diamond Steppers Step Team
• Gamers United
• International Relations Club
• LGBTS Alliance
• Muslim Student Association
• Student Investment Club
• Student Nurse Organization

“When I was a freshman, someone told me to join three clubs: one that reflected my major, one reflecting a current interest, and one I never would have considered joining. That last one was amazing advice because I broadened my horizons by trying something I never would’ve tried before.”

Katelyn Barr
of Smethport, PA, who earned degrees in public relations and broadcast communications in 2015
You can also volunteer in the community, a great way to enrich the life of someone else as well as your own.

Our Office of Community Engagement connects students with organizations who need volunteers.

You can:
- Walk dogs at the local SPCA.
- Build or repair houses through Habitat for Humanity.
- Help out with a blood drive for the American Red Cross.
- Serve meals at The Friendship Table, the community soup kitchen.
- Read to children at the Bradford Area Public Library.

After graduation

With your degree from the University of Pittsburgh, you’ll be on your way to getting a great job or into graduate school, just like our other alumni.

Ninety-two percent have found a job in their career field or have entered graduate or professional school within six months of graduation.

Our alumni are:
• Doctors and nurses
• Police officers, lawyers and judges
• Educators and administrators
• Company CEOs

Others are in some of the most prestigious graduate schools in the country:

• University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine
• University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
• Dartmouth College
• Temple University
• Stanford University
• Johns Hopkins University
• University of Pennsylvania

Meet Michael Moran of White Haven, PA, who earned a bachelor’s degree in history/political science in 2015. Michael was grateful that his courses were demanding because that heavy workload – and help from his professors -- prepared him for law school. He’s now a student at Michigan State University College of Law.

“I thank my professors for pushing me to become the person I could only have dreamed of being a few years go.”

Financial Aid

Paying for a college education can be challenging, but we’re here to help you. We know the impact a Pitt-Bradford education can have on your future. That’s why we work so hard to make that education affordable. Our tuition and housing fees are competitive compared to other similar-sized colleges and universities, and we offer a wide variety of merit- and need-based scholarships to qualified students.

More than 94 percent of our students receive some form of financial aid through grants, loans, work study or scholarships.
