- This organization offers two different scholarship programs, but you have to be a member to apply. The first is called the “Additional Study Scholarship,” and is designed to support students who already have a degree, but want to pursue an additional advanced degree in a field such as athletic administration. The second program is called the “Salary Subsidy Scholarship,” and this program is for students who are looking for a job and sign up with one of the institute’s “host employers.” For more information, check out the ISM website.
