Admission Process for Professional Phase at Neumann University

Students who are seeking admission to graduate programs at Neumann University submit their applications through the Office of Graduate Admissions. The Coordinator of Graduate Admissions reviews application packets for completion before they are forwarded to evaluation by the academic program. The application deadline is May 15 for the entry level MSAT program that will begin in the Summer 3 Semester. Students may be informed of their application status sooner but will be informed no later than June 1. To secure their place in the incoming class, accepted students must submit a confirmation of enrollment form with a non-refundable security deposit in the amount of $100. Although University of Pittsburgh-Bradford students are given preferred acceptance status, acceptance into University of Pittsburgh-Bradford's Exercise Science program is no guarantee of acceptance into the Master of Science in Athletic Training program at Neumann University.
